Time is running out to get those last minute tax deductions for 2010!

That's why Goodwill donation centers at more than 30 locations around the Valley are staying open until 10pm on New Years Eve to help make donating more convenient. Every donor of "gently used" goods will receive a receipt to document the donation for tax purposes.

EXTENDED NEW YEAR'S EVE HOURS
AT GOODWILL DONATION CENTERS
9am to 10pm

Boulder City & Tropicana/Fort Apache locations will close at 7pm

(Visit www.sngoodwill.org for map of donation centers)

Goodwill of Southern Nevada expects more than 10,000 people to donate "gently used" goods during the last week of December. That means Goodwill is ramping up extra staff to handle the influx of donations. Goodwill's processing center in North Las Vegas where donations of "gently used" goods go to be sorted and priced will also stay open late, closing at 10pm instead of 6pm all week.

The sale of "gently used" items in Goodwill stores and on-line, support Goodwill's Career Connections and Workforce Development programs. Career Connections offers FREE job services such as career counseling and resume help, and Workforce Development offers job training and other job placement services to state referred clients.

With the unemployment rate in Las Vegas at 14.3%, the need for these services has increased exponentially. Despite this record number, Goodwill has served a record 5,480 people and placed 1,063 into jobs so far in 2010.
